

Deep South Philosophy and Neuroscience Workgroup American Philosophical Association Pacific Division Meetings
April 2022, Vancouver, British Columbia, Canada

“Philosophy and Neuroscience Graduate Student Showcase I” Session G1B, Wednesday, April 13, 6:00-8:00PM (PDT)
Meeting Room TBA

Chair and Commentator: John Bickle
Mississippi State University, Philosophy and Shackouls Honors College and University of Mississippi Medical Center, Neurobiology and Anatomical Sciences
jbickle@philrel.msstate.edu

Nedah Namati
University of Pittsburgh, History and Philosophy of Science
NNN10@pitt.edu

“What are we ‘reading’ in mindreading? On the ethics and limitations of brain decoding”

Richard Vagnino
University of California, San Diego, Department of Philosophy rvagnino@ucsd.edu

“Leyden jars and magic squares: Analogy use in early electrophysiology”

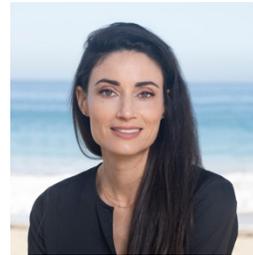

Spencer Kinsey
Georgia State University, Department of Philosophy skinsey8@student.gsu.edu

“Vehicle realism and the Hopfieldian revolution in neuroscience”

Commentator: James Woodward University of Pittsburgh, Department of History and Philosophy of Science
jfw@pitt.edu

Commentator: Lauren Ross
Logic and Philosophy of Science, University of California, Irvine
rossl@uci.edu

“Philosophy and Neuroscience Graduate Student Showcase II,” Session G6A, Thursday, April 14, 8:00-10:00PM (PDT),
Meeting Room TBA

Chair and Commentator: John Bickle
Mississippi State University, Philosophy and Shackouls Honor College, and University of Mississippi Medical Center, Neurobiology and Anatomical Sciences,
jbickle@philrel.msstate.edu

Jaipreet Mattu
University of Western Ontario Philosophy jaipreetmattu@gmail.com

“Construct validity and the head-twitch response (HTR) as a measure of hallucinogenic activity in mouse models of serotonergic psychedelics”

Andrew Bollhagen
University of California, San Diego, Philosophy abollhag@ucsd.edu

“Explaining activities in molecular motors”

Commentator: Lauren Ross
University of California, Irvine Logic and Philosophy of Science
rossl@uci.edu

Commentator: Megan Delehanty University of Calgary Philosophy mdelehan@ucalgary.ca

The next annual meeting of The Deep South Philosophy and Neuroscience Workgroup, Philosophy and Neuroscience at the Gulf V, will be September 22-24, 2022 (Thurs.-Sat.) at the beachfront Hilton Pensacola Beach Hotel.
Information about abstract submission coming soon.

